Dr. Bates Gill holds the Freeman Chair in China Studies at the Center for Strategic and International Studies. He is currently completing a manuscript on China's evolving foreign and security policy and its implications for the United States, and is conducting work on China's social welfare and health care system, with a particular emphasis on the country's HIV/AIDS challenge. He is on the board of directors of the National Committee on United States-China Relations and the U.S.-China Policy Foundation among others. A frequent visitor to Asia, he has lived and worked in China, Switzerland, France, and Sweden, and received his Ph.D. in foreign affairs from the University of Virginia.
