

63rd Washington Asia Forum

Center for Asian Studies of American University

"Evolving Japanese Security Posture

— emerging two-party dynamics, the North Korean threat and the rise of China"

Tsuneo Watanabe

Center for Strategic and International Studies

Tuesday

February 10, 2004

2:00pm

SIS 200

Tsuneo Watanabe joined the office of the Japan Chair at CSIS in February 1995 and is on leave from the office of Japan Congressman Kozo Watanabe. He analyzes Japanese domestic politics and their policy implications. His publications include Challenge of the 9-11 terrorism to Japan: Warning from the US think tank, "Japan's Policy toward the Korean Peninsula from 1999 to 2002: Conflicts over DPRK Policy Require Trilateral Coordination," in Strengthening U.S.-ROK-Japan Trilateral Relations, and "Prevent Tyranny of Pneuma by Improving Civil-Military Relations" in Big Bang in Security Policy. He received his D.D.S. from Tohoku University, Japan and his M.A. from the New School for Social Research, New York.

For further information, contact the Director of the Center for Asian Studies, Professor Quansheng Zhao or Aria Bailey (202-885-1760)